Censure Trial Is Refresh Of Old Records

McCarthy Hearing Hits Weekend Recess; Will Resume On Tuesday

WASHINGTON (AP)—The McCarthy censure hearings, so far almost entirely a rehash of old records and testimony, hit a weekend dead spot today.

Possibly the inquiry may be over by late next week.

The mass of evidence on five major classes of accusations against Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) has been spread on the record in three days of drab but fast-moving public sessions. There was nothing new in it, no surprises.

Where the hearings go when they start up again Tuesday is uncertain. The six-man special committee may have a bit more evidence to offer and briefs to file.

"We haven't closed the door on anything," said Chairman Watkins (R-Utah).

Or McCarthy and his lawyer, Edward Bennett Williams, may open their defense.

"We'll be ready to go on Tuesday," Williams said.

McCarthy told newsmen "I anticipate I will be" a witness. But neither he nor Williams was ready to say what other witnesses they might call, if any.

Under orders from the Senate, the committee is considering a resolution by Sen. Flanders (R-Vt.) to condemn McCarthy's conduct as tending to bring the Senate into disrepute. Backing up the resolution, Flanders and Senators Morse (Ind-Ore) and Fulbright (D-Ark) aimed 46 overlapping, specific charges against McCarthy.

To get things started, the committee skipped some charges and (Continued on Page Two)

'Blue Laws' End In Cleanup After Storm

BOSTON (AP)—Gov. Christian Herter has waived the Massachusetts blue laws with an unprecedented executive order which permits retail stores to remain open Sunday and Labor Day to meet the growing food crisis resulting from the hurricane which battered New England Tuesday.

The action came as hundreds of repairmen and cleanup crews worked feverishly to restore electricity to the estimated two million who were still without power.

Tons of foodstuffs spoiled in refrigerators that have been powerless since the hurricane struck, but state officials said loads of dry ice flown in from other states is helping to keep dairies, packing houses and storage plants in shape.

The Sunday sale of food was ordered for those who must buy from day to day because of lack of home refrigeration.

Meanwhile, fear mounted that the hurricane death toll might reach 66. A Coast Guard report said there has been no sign of a New Bedford fishing boat with 11 men aboard.

The scalloper Red Star was last reported Tuesday battling 65-foot waves in Nantucket waters. Later the Coast Guard reported it had sighted wreckage near the scene.

On land the search continued for more than a score of persons, many of them children, still listed as missing. The federal government has classified both Massachusetts and Rhode Island as "major disaster" areas.

J. Goeller Jr. Made Director In Local Bank

L. E. Goeller Jr., 34, of Circleville has been named a director of the Circleville Savings and Banking Company.

Goeller, who succeeds his grandfather, the late John C. Goeller, is a partner in a local advertising novelty manufacturing firm.

The elder Goeller was also president of the bank in addition to being a director. T. M. Glick was elected president a week ago.

Young Goeller is chairman for the next six months of the Pickaway County blood program. He is married and has three daughters. The family residence is at 832 Pershing Dr.

He is a partner with his father, L. E. Goeller Sr. in the Kippy Kit Company.

Hocking Buys Plant

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Anchor Hocking Glass Corp. of Lancaster, Ohio, established its first southern plant yesterday with purchase of Tropical Glass and Box Co. of Jacksonville.

U. S. Diplomats Seek Plan For Armament Of Germans

WASHINGTON (AP)—After a week of worry and soul searching, U. S. officials are fairly confident today that a formula will be found in a reasonable time for arming West Germany as a partner in the anti-Communist defense of Western Europe.

But there is far less confidence that this formula will promote European unity. Some other device may have to be found for that.

As Washington views the situation, the tragedy of French destruction of the proposal for a European Defense Community is that EDC would have served both designs.

Diplomatic authorities say privately the first dangers of the EDC defeat apparently have been weathered successfully.

There had been deep concern here about a violent reaction in West Germany, including angry statements against France, outbursts of extreme German nationalism and the like.

State Department officials said that has not happened. They regard as encouraging the moderate tone of German reaction, based on the theme of getting on with the task of strengthening Europe's defenses.

Another fear was that American reaction might take a violent swing. Some officials now concede that perhaps EDC was oversold as a solution for Europe's troubles.

Dulles Stresses Importance Of SEATO Parley

Conference Called 'One Of Most Important Of Our Time' By Envoy

MANILA (AP)—U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles arrived today for an eight-nation Southeast Asia security conference he called "one of the most important international conferences of our time."

An 18-gun salute boomed as his plane landed. Two military bands began playing and a host of dignitaries crowded forward as he walked from the airliner.

"I am happy to be again in the Philippine Republic," Dulles told the crowd. "I particularly look forward to seeing again Mr. Magsaysay. I met him here before when he was minister of defense. Now I shall be honored to pay my respects to him as president."

Tomorrow U. S. and Philippines officials will meet in advance of the foreign ministers' conference opening Monday to discuss ways and means of strengthening the mutual defense pact linking the two nations.

"I am confident that through frank discussion and mutual understanding we shall find ways to advance further Philippine security," Dulles declared.

"Next Monday Manila will become the seat of one of the most important international conferences of our time. The representatives of eight free nations will meet here to discuss how to protect Southeast Asia and the southwest Pacific from aggression."

Immediately after reading his statement he drove to the residence of U. S. Ambassador Raymond Spruance.

The secretary was expected to dampen the enthusiasm of the Philippines and Thailand for a strong military alliance against communism.

The United States already has indicated it is not anxious to go along with their demands for a pact binding members to instant retaliation in the event of an attack against any one of them.

Washington is reported to prefer an agreement under which member nations would react to an attack against another member within the framework of their constitutional processes.

Worker Freed From Silt Trap

MILAN (AP)—Fellow workmen fashioned homemade steel tubes yesterday to rescue 21-year-old Walter Myers from a cylinder of pulverized shale silt into which he fell at the Lavey Pottery Co. plant here.

Myers was buried up to his neck for 2½ hours.

The steel tubes were forced down over his body, and finally pulled out with him in them. Previous attempts to pull him out with a rope only resulted in welding him tighter in the silt.

Orphans 'Alumni' To Hear Lausche

TIFFIN (AP)—The Junior Home Alumni Assn. annual homecoming here over Labor Day weekend will be highlighted by an address by Gov. Frank J. Lausche at its banquet Sunday.

The association, established in 1924, is composed of alumni of the National Home for Orphans near Tiffin. The home went out of existence in 1944.

Fifteen times in the last 30 years thousands of former residents of the home have gathered from over the nation for the homecomings.

Luxuries Rated Ahead Of Taxes

JOLIET, Ill. (AP)—A plea by an unidentified woman for a cut in property taxes was rejected by the Will County Board of Review.

Tillman Woodhouse, a board member said, "She said she and her husband recently purchased their $36,000 home, a Cadillac and a lot of expensive home furnishings. What with keeping up all the payments, she said, they couldn't really afford to pay taxes at all."

If it failed, there was always a certainty that some other European defense plan, however much less desirable, would have to be found.

The ways still open in a practical sense appear to embrace only two possibilities.

First, the American and British government now favor solving the German rearmament problem by making West Germany a member of the 14-nation North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Second, should the NATO plan fail, London and Washington appear to have an understanding that they must then try to rearm Germany directly. They would prefer to that with the approval and cooperation of France.

Britain has already proposed an eight-nation emergency conference to begin drafting a new plan for West German rearmament. It was reported yesterday that the United States was inclined to agree to the proposal, although no word has been received from Britain.

Legion Ends Parley With Annual Poll

WASHINGTON (AP)—The rear guard of the 36th annual American Legion convention started home today with a new national commander at the helm and a stack of re-sounding resolutions it hopes will influence government policy.

The four-day convention ended officially yesterday afternoon, with the veterans voicing in no uncertain terms their indignation about communism at home and abroad.

Congress is certain to hear of fresh legion demands for universal military training, for new anti-Communist legislation and investigations and for increased veterans' benefits.

Seaborn P. Collins Jr. of Las Cruces, N. M., yesterday elected national commander for the coming year, pledged a vigorous campaign to carry out dozens of resolutions.

Collins, a World War II flier, was chosen unanimously to succeed Arthur J. Connell of Middletown, Conn.

The convention also elected these other new officers:

Vice Commanders Leonard Jackson, Clarks, La.; Robert Shelby, Salt Lake City; Howard C. Kingdon, Conneaut, Ohio; Patrick H. Mangan Jr., Brattleboro, Vt.; Dr. Carl J. Rees, Newark, Del.; and national chaplain, the Rev. Albert J. Hoffmann, Dubuque, Iowa.

No Terrorist Gang At L.A.B.

COLUMBUS (AP)—No organized terrorist gang exists at Lockbourne Air Force Base, officials there have announced following an investigation.

Brig. Gen. Jewett T. Wheless, commanding officer, said yesterday the investigation disclosed nine airmen with the so-called Pacheco tattoo. The Pacheco has been described as a hoodlum gang dedicated to violence.

Eight of the airmen denied membership, the general said, and "didn't even know what Pacheco meant until all this broke."

Gen. Wheless said the tattoos won't mean a thing as long as the men stay "good soldiers."

Flying Farmers Get Honors On Last Day Of State Fair

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio's 100th state fair ends its eight-day run today by honoring the state's flying farmers.

Attendance at the exposition up to yesterday was 396,723, a drop of about 72,000 from last year's corresponding time. Total receipts for the first six days of the fair were reported at $219,329. That is about $65,000 less than the 1953 intake during the same period.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche was honored at the fair yesterday. Spot-lighted were these events:

Linda Gordon, 16, of Cedarville in Greene County and Richard Klob, 18, of Rt. 3, Oxford, in Butler County were named winners in the 4-H club health improvement program. They won over contestants from 37 other counties.

Winners were selected on the basis of good health and promotion of community health improvement programs.

Defending champion Carl Steinfeld of Rochester, N. Y., won the eastern national championship horseshoe pitching tournament after a pitchoff with Casey Jones of Random Lake, Wis. Ohio's state champion, Harold Reno of Sabina, placed sixth.

Dennis King, a junior in Upper Sandusky High School, won the sweepstakes trophy in the junior

Millions Of Americans Hitting Highways On Summer's Final Holiday

A CAR flipped onto its back by the high winds of Hurricane Carol is examined by passersby on a flooded street in Providence, R. I. While the stricken, six-state area in New England counted 42 known dead and $500 million damage, a new hurricane was reported making up off the east coast of Florida and heading north at 15-20 miles an hour.

390 Of Them May Be Killed Over Weekend

Ohio Motorists Due To See Fair Weather; Some Rain Predicted

CHICAGO (AP)—Summer's last long weekend lured millions of Americans to the highways, rails, waters and skies today.

From the big cities there was a general Labor Day exodus to beaches, mountains, national and state parks and similar tourist attractions. Railroads, airlines and bus companies added special equipment and crews to carry the holiday load.

The National Safety Council estimated that millions of automobiles will choke the roads and that 390 persons will be killed in traffic mishaps in the 78 hours between 6 p. m. today and midnight Monday.

If the estimated toll should be reached it would be 44 deaths more than occurred on the highways in a comparable nonholiday weekend period of Aug. 20-23. The Associated Press conducted a nationwide survey that weekend which showed that in addition to motoring fatalities there were 43 drownings and 104 miscellaneous deaths for an aggregate of 493.

THE COUNCIL urged every motorist to use common sense, drive at reduced speed and observe the rules and courtesies of the road.

In Michigan, where license plates proclaim the state a "water wonderland" for tourists and vacationers, Gov. G. Mennen Williams has declared a state of emergency over the weekend to keep traffic deaths down. About 700 National Guard members are helping patrol the roads.

Ohio motorists were warned that despite road patrols, drivers will have to assume their own responsibility.

"Patrolmen cannot get behind each automobile wheel and do the driving," said Col. George Mingle, state patrol superintendent.

Mingle said Ohio had 46 traffic deaths over the first two summer holiday weekends. Twenty-three are expected to die on Ohio highways this weekend.

He said the overall traffic fatality picture so far this year has shown improvement. He cited an 11 per cent drop in deaths.

"This," he added, "is proof motorists can improve."

Ohio's holiday weather is expected to be only fair with rain a definite possibility. The five-day forecast reads:

Temperatures will average above normal with cooler Saturday and rising temperatures Sunday and Monday, cooler again by Wednesday. Showers mostly likely Sunday or Monday and again Wednesday. Normal low 59, normal high 79 north to 82 south.

Patrol, Sheriff Warn Drivers

State Patrolmen Bob Greene and Gene Miller together with Pickaway County Sheriff Charles Radcliff jointly warn all motorists that they will be riding close herd over the Labor Day weekend.

With a predicted 32 deaths set for the state over the holiday, law enforcement officials in the area promise that they will do their best to see that Pickaway County does not contribute to the death toll.

Both the Patrolmen and the Sheriff warn that they will crack down heavily on any violators. Greene and Miller will be working around the clock on patrol.

Up the middle of August, Pickaway County recorded 12 traffic deaths and 122 persons injured, according to reports from the sheriff's department.

Phone Plan OK'd

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio utilities commission today permitted the General Telephone Co. to set up rates for a correct time announcement service.

Sneezing Driver Ends Up In 'Mess'

HOLTON, Mich. (AP)—Herbert Hislop, 38, of Holton, suffered more than the usual agonies of hay fever today.

A fit of sneezing gripped him while he was driving along U. S. 20 near here. He lost control of his car which smashed into a utility pole. He was uninjured but the car, Hislop said, "is a mess."

82 Filipinos Die As Train Careens Down Mountainside

MANILA (AP)—A heavily loaded logging train carrying more than 100 passengers on empty flat cars careened down a mountainside and piled up on a wooden bridge yesterday, killing at least 82 persons.

Most of the other were injured, many critically, in what is described as the worst railroad disaster in Philippine history.

Cars, logs and crushed bodies hurtled from the wrecked bridge into a gorge 100 feet below. Cranes were hoisting massive logs from the gorge today and officials said additional bodies may be found.

The wreck occurred on northern Negros Island in the southern Philippines and authorities still were trying to piece together exactly what happened.

Engineer Pablo Villarete, 46, said that as his train crept down a steep grade near the town of Fabrica 16 cars loaded with logs broke loose and began rolling free.

IN AN ATTEMPT to save his train Villarete said he raced his engine and seven coupled cars down the mountain, but the runaway cars caught up with the train on the bridge.

The crash derailed many cars, wrecked the bridge and tossed five cars over the side. Chains holding the logs snapped and the huge logs hurtled off the cars, crushing many passengers and sweeping others into the gorge. Some cars were smashed against the mountainside.

Survivors said some bodies were torn apart by the logs. Others were crushed beyond recognition. Unidentified bodies were lined along the right-of-way.

Officials said passengers on the train were mostly employees of the Insular Lumber Co., which owned the train, and their families.

Police Chief Emilio V. Lica described the wreck as "the most terrible accident I ever saw."

Negro Honor Grad Fights Ban In Texas

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—An honor graduate of a Negro high school looked for "some other method" today to enter the University of Texas after his acceptance notice was canceled by mail.

Marion George Ford Jr. of Houston, the student refused admission, said he had not received a letter mailed him by H. Y. McCown, university registrar and of admissions. But he admitted the announcement "caught me off guard."

"I don't know which way to turn," he said.

He said he and his mother, Mrs. Laverne Ford, would attempt to contact Tom Sealy of Midland, Tex., chairman of the university's Board of Regents.

"If I'm unable to move him," Ford said, "we'll have to use some other method to get my point over." He did not explain what method but said court action would be a waste of time.

"In a few years there will be hundreds of Negro students at the university," he said. "Why hold me back for this one year?"

After a recent U. S. Supreme Court ruling that segregation should end in public schools, the Texas Education Agency first announced it would abide by the decision but later said it would take at least a year to comply.

Gov. Allan Shivers, recently nominated for a third term, said in both the first primary campaign and in the heated runoff campaign that segregation would continue in Texas "as long as I am governor."

Panel Witnesses Given Protection

COLUMBUS (AP)—Gov. Frank J. Lausche today promised cooperation with Rep. Clare E. Hoffman (R-Mich.) to provide police protection for witnesses in the federal investigation in Cleveland of labor racketeering.

Hoffman said yesterday he would appeal to the governor because witnesses "haven't the nerve to talk to our investigators."

The governor instructed Highway Safety Director U. C. Felt to provide state highway patrol protection for witnesses and contact local police chiefs for additional safeguards.

Censure Trial Is Relash Of Old Records

lumped the others into five major categories.

Working with unexpected speed it finished putting into the record by mid-afternoon yesterday the documentary evidence, mostly from transcripts of prior hearings of other committees.

The two categories covered yesterday were charges that McCarthy (1) violated the espionage law by bringing into the recent McCarthy-Army hearings a document quoting a secret FBI report, and (2) urged government employees to break the law and violate their oaths of office by giving him secret information.

Long excerpts from the Army-McCarthy hearings were read into the record retracing the story of how McCarthy produced last May 4 what he said was a letter from FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, relating to security at the Army radar lab at Ft. Monmouth, N. J.

IT WAS A 2 1/2 page document which Hoover later was quoted as saying contained verbatim passages from a 15-page memorandum the FBI had sent to the Army intelligence service.

Also into the record went a letter from Atty. Gen. Brownell declaring Hoover had told him "he never wrote any such letter" as the abbreviated document McCarthy produced. The latter document, he said, was "not authentic."

Brownell said, furthermore, that the document involved "an unauthorized use of classified information" and "serious harm" would result from ignoring secrecy labels on FBI papers. The document was never made public.

WASHINGTON (AP)—One grand wrangle—it will last for months, perhaps for years, and could split the Allies — is shaping up over France and West Germany.

This is a look at the problems: Nine years after the war West Germany is not free. Troops of the United States, Britain and France still occupy the country. The three powers have veto rights over important actions of the German government.

The United States and Britain think the time has come to let Germany have more, if not complete, independence. The Germans are demanding full independence. The United States and Britain probably won't accept that.

They may want to retain emergency rights. That is, they may want to be able to take over Germany if the Communists try to seize power by force.

The Germans' demands for full independence may be for bargaining purposes. They have a good bargaining position. The United States and Britain want them to rearm to help in the defense of Europe.

The Germans say they want full independence before talking of rearming. The two allies have to be careful not to alienate the West Germans to the point of turning them toward Russia or making them balk at taking part in Western defense.

At the same time, in wanting to rearm the Germans, the United States and Britain must face a question: Is there some way to limit German rearmament so she cannot again become a military menace to her neighbors?

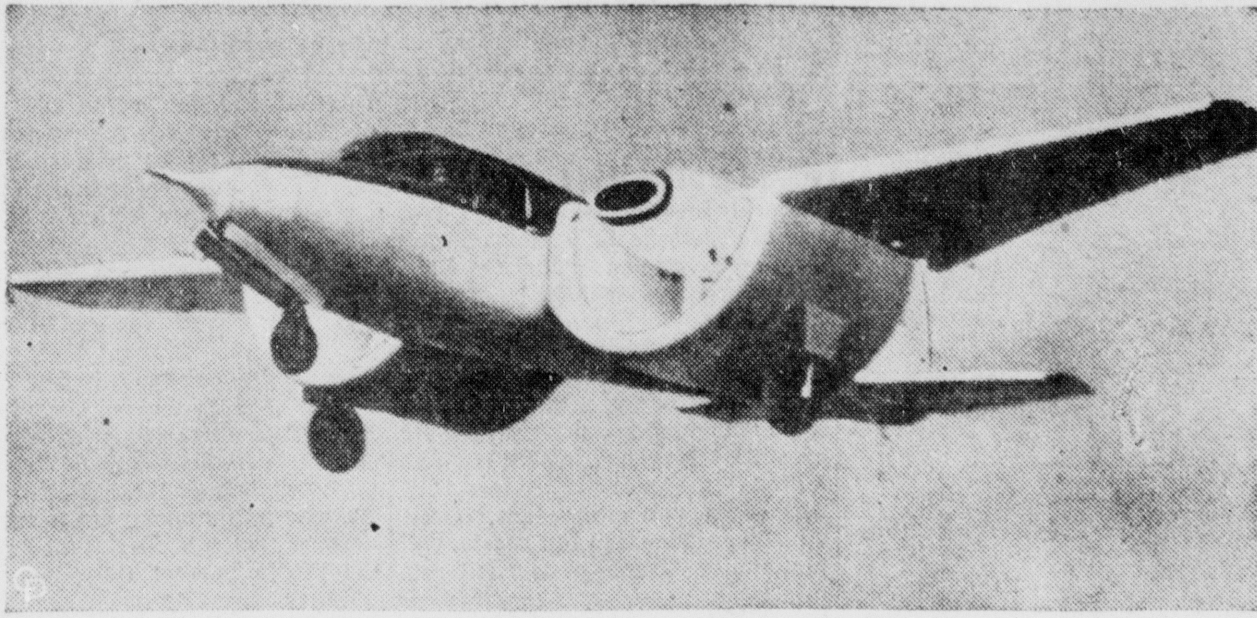

The French have already expressed fear of a rearmament Germany. Can the United States and Britain persuade the French to let Germany rearm?

Or, if the United States and Britain and their allies on the Continent insist on rearming Germany over French protests, will the French people be antagonized to the point of wrecking the Western alliance with the French?

The problem of the United States and Britain is how to satisfy both the Germans and the French without losing the alliance of either.

The French are in a position to throw a monkey wrench in American and British effort to grant Germany sovereignty. Since the French occupy part of the country, they could continue to occupy it. How then could the United States and Britain say Germany had sovereignty?

In 1949 the Western Allies created NATO, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. They set up a general staff to plan Western Europe's defenses. Under NATO they agreed to help one another in case any one of them was attacked.

SHOWN DURING A TEST over Oxnard, Calif., this new two-and-one-half-ton twin engine plane demonstrates that it can stay aloft at speeds as slow as 11 miles an hour. William H. Custer, the inventor, said the scoop-shape-wing plane rose at the rate of 3,000 feet a minute after using less than 200 feet of runway. It was brought from 180 miles per hour down to 11, landing at short distances. (International) enough, needed German troops.

But there was a weak spot: What was needed was a truly strong European army, already set up and waiting, in case Russia attacked. There was general agreement such an army, to be strong The Allies thought they found a solution: set up a single European army—called EDC, the European Defense Community—in which six European countries, including

France and Germany, would place their troops under a single command.

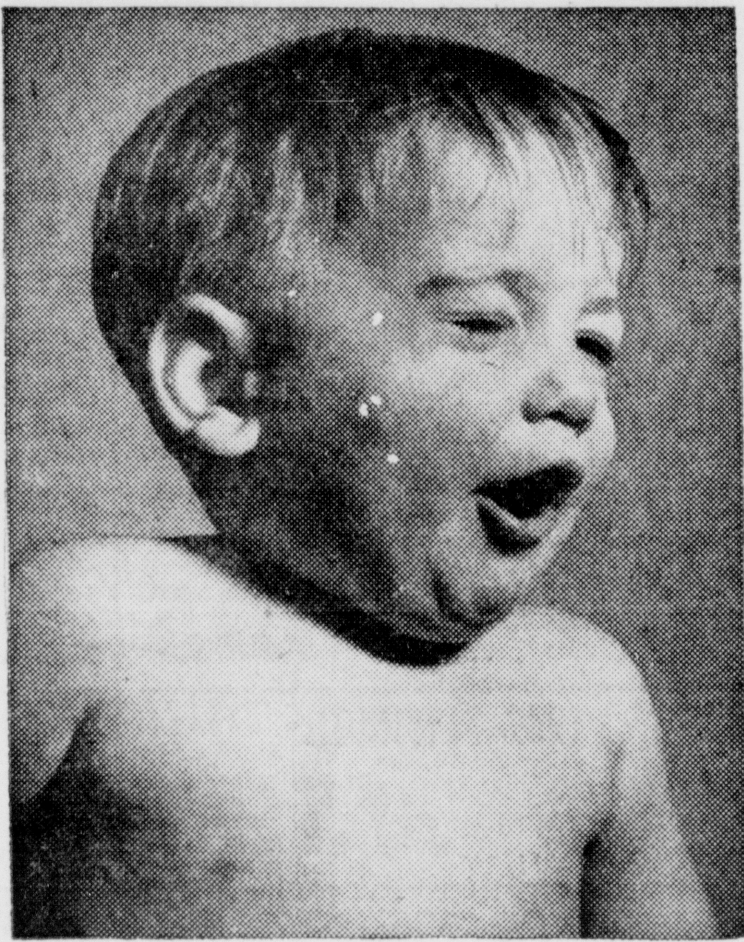

The French stalled and this week killed EDC altogether. That left the Western Allies where they were when they set up NATO five years ago: no single European army and no rearmament Germany. Now the United States and Britain are talking of letting Germany rearm and become a member of NATO, which now has 14 member nations, including the United States, Britain and France.

But France is in a good spot to throw a monkey wrench in that too. No new nation can become an NATO member unless all 14 present members approve.

If France used that veto to keep Germany out of NATO, the United States and Britain would have to find some other solution or try to change the NATO rules. That might cost them their French ally. If they don't let Germany rearm, they may lose their German ally.

4 Important Reasons why you should buy a PONTIAC RIGHT NOW!

1 Pontiac is One of the Greatest Cars Ever Built!

Match today's Pontiac with America's finest cars and you'll get a dramatic picture of Pontiac value. First of all, Pontiac is big—bigger, in fact, than many cars costing hundreds of dollars more. Pontiac is beautiful—with its distinctive Silver Streak styling. Inside, you'll find genuine fine-car luxury and appointments—along with the roominess and comfort that come only with a long wheelbase. But the big surprise comes when you test Pontiac's performance. See how alert it is to every demand in traffic, how it handles and corners almost without effort, how it takes to the open road with plenty of power to spare and saves money every mile.

2 Pontiac has the Best Resale Value in its Price Class!

Along with all its fine-car size, luxury and performance, Pontiac has a very special attribute no car at any price can beat—its unsurpassed reputation for year-in, year-out dependability. Pontiac's carefree, economical long life and its proved record of amazingly low maintenance expense are so widely known and acknowledged that it commands the highest resale value in its price class. Because Pontiac is America's most desirable used car, your original investment comes back in greater measure when you trade.

3 Pontiac is Priced Just Above the Lowest!

After you've convinced yourself of Pontiac's value, after you've considered all the good things you've heard about its dependability—see how it compares dollar-wise. Despite the fact that it's a fine car in every sense of the term, Pontiac is priced so near the lowest that if you can afford any new car you can afford a Pontiac.

4 We'll Make You a Deal You Can't Afford to Miss!

Right now we're making such liberal trade-in allowances that you just can't afford to pass up the greatest opportunity you ever had to become a fine-car owner. Come in and get the facts.

Van Heusen Century Shirts have the new, soft collar that won't wrinkle...ever!

Put Van Heusen's Century shirt to the test.

Wear it on your longest, hardest day. When you take it off, look at the collar... you'll find it as soft and smooth as the moment you put it on. Amazing? We think so.

The secret is the one-piece collar that's woven to fit the curve of your neck smoothly! That's why it won't wilt or wrinkle...ever! And the Century washes beautifully...just iron the collar flat, flip it, and it folds perfectly because the fold-line is woven in permanently. Extra wear, too. American Institute of Laundering tests prove that Century shirts wear and wash up to 30 times. (That's twice the wear you get from ordinary shirts.)

Date Trees Grow Tall; So Do Growers' Woes

By WELDON D. WOODSON
Central Press Correspondent
ALHAMBRA, Calif. — As you munch luscious packaged dates from California's Coachella valley near Indio, center of the nation's 4,500-acre domestic date crop, most likely you hardly realize the difficulties involved to get the nutritious fruit from the palms into your hands. This year, the growers are having more troubles than usual.

With the 25,000,000-pound harvest now on, dates are falling from scores of palm trees because of the high picking costs and low prices. Grove owners are unable, financially, to hire sufficient number of workers to keep up with the ripening fruit. Some even bypassed a crop this year. They simply did not pollinate the clusters.

Those that did, however, have tried to cut every possible corner in costs in order to come out in black ink, instead of red, at the end of the season. For example, a date palm extends many feet into the air and 70-cent-an-hour Mexican national workers repeatedly must ascend a 30-foot ladder, snip off clusters, descend with them, and go up again. To curtail this labor expense, many date men have resorted to spreading a canvas on a truck or on the ground under the tree. Then the workers shake the bunches and the dates drop onto the canvas.

AS ANOTHER means to lessen the cost, a number of growers bought carrot papers to wrap around the bunches to protect the ripening dates from humidity and possible rain. Carrot paper-lined packing crates sell for less than the heavier stock generally used for dates.

Nevertheless, the growers' chief worry is the weather, for humidity is death on dates and a bad rain can ruin a crop. The date skins crack or "check" when the weather is humid in the summer. Later on, discoloration, called "blacknose," develops and down goes the grade and price.

Not only are out-of-staters unfamiliar with these multifarious problems, but, according to the California Date Growers association directors, hundreds not connected with the business but who live in Coachella valley seem not to know of them.

To make Coachella valley residents aware of the industry's importance from a dollar standpoint, directors of the association have recommended to the growers that they pay off their help in $2 bills. Manager James Wright said the association's bi-weekly payroll now is $14,000. He estimated that the plan suddenly will put 30,000 or more $2 bills into circulation here. When clerks, housewives, mechanics and others get a $2 bill in change, they will exclaim spontaneously, "Oh, that came from the date people!"

Yankee Dollar Buying More These Days

Some Coffee, Meat Prices Bring Back Happier Memories

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (P)—Americans can take off on their long weekend thankful that their dollars will buy a little more of some things—and with the pleasing prospect that when Indian summer comes along a number of current business stresses are likely to be eased.

There'll be some pleasant things you'll have to get used to. For the first time in about six months you can go into the grocery store and see coffee priced in two figures instead of three.

You'll find many cuts of meat at prices that bring back happy memories. And there's the very good prospect that in coming weeks a much larger supply of beef and pork will be coming to market to compete for your dollar—and competition should mean lower prices.

A number of foodstuffs are dropping at the wholesale price level. When you get back to your grocery after Labor Day you may find a retail bargain here and there.

Before you get too happy, however—the fuel oil men are talking now about the winter's prospects, and some of them think that prices may edge higher. The oil industry has cut production and got supplies pretty well under control. Oilmen think that their experience of last fall, when fuel oil supplies

REUNITED after 24 hours of an unfortunate comedy of errors, Airman 1/C Ruben Espiritu, 22, and his wife Rita race into each other's arms in New York. Mrs. Espiritu, also 22, arrived at Idlewild airport from England. Her husband, on leave from Camp Kilmer, N. J., missed connections at the airport. She headed for Camp Kilmer while he searched the streets of New York for her. He finally told his troubles to the Mirror, which carried the story and photos of the couple. An alert reader spotted Mrs. Espiritu, and the reunion followed quickly. (International Soundphoto) man-made—will be more bitter than ever. And promotions sometimes mean bargains for shoppers.

Merchants are taking heart at the first signs that consumers are ready to loosen up again and buy more big ticket items on time. The Federal Reserve Board says that for two months in a row now installment buying has increased "more than seasonally."

Folk who had paid the last installment on earlier purchases—and who perhaps felt a little lost without the prospect of another installment coming up on something or other—have been going out and taking on new refrigerators, TV sets or maybe a new car. If the trend continues, the fall season will be happier for many merchants and manufacturers—and for the workers in their factories.

And America's electric bill keeps going higher, as people use more and more juice for their appliances. Electric power production has just set another record, and is riding eight per cent higher than this time last year.

Many manufacturers will also welcome Labor Day — traditional day for a change for the better in industrial production. This year their hopes are set higher than last. The 1953 Labor Day found businessmen worried, with business slipping and the depth of its prospective fall in doubt.

Today businessmen are expecting—or at least hoping—that before the month is over the production curve will start upward. It's been stalled all summer. Industrialists believe it will start up now.

And resort owners will be all set for your final fling of the season, quite willing to take that dollar of yours—stable or not.

150-YEAR-OLD COLLEGE LOOKS TO THE FUTURE

By GEORGE E. HOERTER

Central Press Correspondent

ATHENS, O.—As Ohio university pauses to glance back on its first 150 years, administrators and officials of the oldest university in the Northwest Territory are looking toward, and planning for the future.

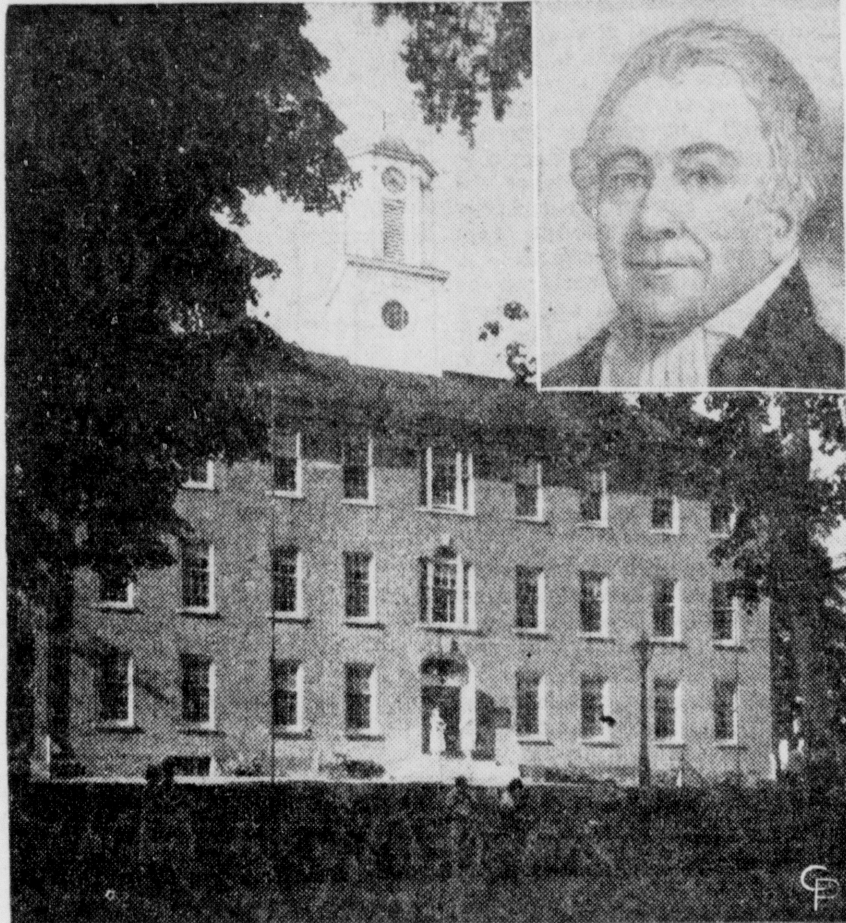

The present administration, under the leadership of President John C. Baker, is mindful of the act which established Ohio university "for the instruction of youth in all the various branches of liberal arts and sciences, for the promotion of good education, virtue, religion and morality." Continued emphasis on a liberal education for each student, regardless of his major field shows the university is continuing in the tradition of the 1804 Act which established "a university in Athens."

Eighteen years before the passage of this act, the idea and planning for the university began at the Bunch of Grapes tavern in Boston, Mass. It was here that the Ohio Company was formed and made plans for its westward movement into the Ohio country. Members of the Ohio Company and university founders Manasseh Cutler, scientist and scholar, and Rufus Putnam, soldier and surveyor, saw the need for providing public education and the creation of a university which would be available to serve all the youth in the new territory. From the beginning, Cutler and Putnam demanded that part of the land be used for the support of a university.

GRANTED 46,080 acres of land in southeastern Ohio, Ohio university emerged as the first land-grant college in the nation. With the exception of small fees from the students, the university's sole source of income until it became a state university after the Civil war was from the rents and sales of these lands.

In 1802, one year before Ohio became a state, the territorial legislature passed an act establishing the "American Western University." The only significant alteration in the charter granted by the territorial legislature was the changing of the name to "Ohio University" by the General assembly Feb. 18, 1804.

On Oct. 1, 1808, Jacob Lindley, the university's first president, began teaching classes to three students in a two-room, two-story building. Eight years later, after construction of the College Edifice, Cutler Hall, oldest Northwest Territory building erected for higher education. Inset: Ohio U. co-founder Manasseh Cutler.

Lindley's classroom building served as a preparatory school and a private school until it was torn down in 1841. A commemorative marker now indicates the site of Ohio university's first building.

During the early days of the university, three buildings on the "College Green" comprised the university's physical plant... the College Edifice, East Wing and West Wing.

The College Edifice, or Cutler Hall as it is known today, was erected in 1816 and was rehabilitated completely in 1947 to duplicate the original structure. The oldest building in the Northwest Territory erected for the purpose of higher education, Cutler Hall stands today as a monument to one of the university's founders, Manasseh Cutler.

William H. McGuffey, author of the famed McGuffey Readers, attracted many students to Ohio university while he was president. Both attendance and scholastic standards were raised during his administration. During his tenure as president, McGuffey planted the row of elm trees which face the campus today and, with Cutler Tower, serve as landmarks of Ohio university.

In recent years, nature has taken away some of Ohio university's tradition. One by one, the century-old McGuffey elms have fallen prey to the Dutch Elm disease and have been removed. Several of the fallen elms were made into benches which have been placed on the terrace of the new Ohio University center.

DESPITE the many changes which have taken place at Ohio university in recent years, several old campus buildings continue to serve the needs of today's students. Around historic Cutler, Wilson and McGuffey Halls are more than 100 buildings and over 775 acres of land which is valued at more than $25,000,000. The present physical plant provides the educational, housing, cultural and recreational needs for the more than 4,500 students.

Started in 1946, the $12,000,000 building project included plans for the rehabilitation of several campus buildings, the erection of commerce, engineering, chemistry and dramatic art and speech buildings, the natatorium, the 50-bed capacity health center, several men's and women's housing units and the Ohio University center which was dedicated on the university's 150th birthday in February.

Pennsylvania Town's Lights Turned Off

HUGHESTOWN, Pa. (AP)—The Scranton Electric Co. notified this eastern Pennsylvania town it planned to shut off power to the town Sept. 1 unless a 1953 bill totalling $1,100 was paid by that time. It wasn't.

The blackout affected only street lights and other city fixtures.

Borough Council has been unable to pay the bill because of a dispute among borough officials over the 1954 budget presented last January.

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (AP)—It's Arthur Godfrey's opinion that "people who haven't flown haven't lived."

That was the radio and television performer's comment here yesterday as he received a diamond-studded silver punch bowl given him by the Virginia Advisory Committee on Aviation for his contributions to flying education.

Godfrey told a regional meeting of the National Aviation Trades Assn. he passed a physical examination to enable him to pilot his own plane again Sept. 1. That's the day the Civil Aero-

NEW CROPS ON HORIZON

THERE'S A BRANCH in the Department of Agriculture that farmers in surplus crop growing states should know more about. It's the Plant Exploration and Introduction Section, a research and development activity, which has as its mission the discovery of new crops to replace those in domestic long supply and to develop U. S. production of industrially useful plants that must now be imported.

Government scientists are busily engaged in attempting to find new crops for farmers to plant in place of wheat, corn and cotton. Among plants being promoted as suitable for the wheat country are the castor bean, which provides oil for mixing plastics and as the base for hydraulic fluids, and the sesame seed, which is being increasingly used as a seed on bread and rolls and as an oil for making candy.

Bucking up the agency in its work are some solid past successes. It takes credit for the promotion of soybeans as a commercial crop as well as for introducing to U. S. cultivation such cash crops as tung nuts, olives and dates. And the agency at present has up its sleeve bamboo, pistachio nuts and Chinese lychee nuts.

Perhaps few of these new plants will catch on, but not many real finds will be required to give fresh impetus to U. S. agriculture.

GOOD CUSTOMER

WHILE THERE have been hints that Uncle Sam is not gaining in popularity among foreign anti-anti countries, he continues to spend mountains of money in Europe and elsewhere, to the great economic benefit of the recipient nations. Government and private U. S. spending is an important source of dollar earnings for foreign nations.

Outlays by the U. S. armed forces abroad in 1953 reached $2.5 billion, an increase of $500 million over the previous year, and are expected to be still higher this year.

Japan tops the list in volume, receiving $775 million in 1953. France was helped to the extent of $400 million. The United Kingdom came in for a neat $198 million, while Canada received $192 million, a substantial boost over the previous year, and by a wide margin the greatest outlay of all when comparative populations are taken into consideration.

These millions go for goods actually bought, and for maintenance of occupation armies and airfields. It is difficult to understand why Uncle Sam isn't gaining in popularity. He certainly is fulfilling the role of a good customer. And the customer is presumed to always be right.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Chiang Kai-shek's government holds not only the island of Formosa but a number of small islands that run up to the coast of Chekiang province. Actually, the Tachen islands are only 14 miles off the Chekiang coast. Quemoy is 15 miles off the Fukien coast.

The Yangtze River delta includes Chekiang province. Shanghai, the metropolis of China, is in adjacent Kiangsu province, but geographically Shanghai is more a part of Chekiang than of Kiangsu, as, for instance, Chicago lies closer to northern Indiana than to southern Illinois.

The Acheson policy toward Formosa and these islands was that while the United States Seventh Fleet lies in Chinese waters to safeguard Formosa from being conquered by Red China, it also prevents Chiang Kai-shek from invading the mainland. In effect, it neutralized Formosa. China, however, has succeeded in conducting some unimportant raids on the mainland, the objective of which was not military victory but espionage and contact with underground groups.

The Acheson policy continued to prevail to some degree up to the Geneva Conference. It is now being revamped. The significance of current excitement in the Far East arises from the calling of the Manila Conference which meets on September 6.

It is politically essential for Red China to capture these islands and even Formosa. As long as Chiang continues to hold Formosa, an anti-Communist underground movement will continue to exist and might grow in force as more elements on the mainland become dissatisfied or can be disaffected.

There is an old Chinese tradition on this subject. When the Manchus conquered China, tradition has it that the last of the Mings took refuge on Formosa and from that island sought to recapture China. A Chinese pirate, a supporter of the Mings, who went by the historic name of Koxinga, ravaged the Chinese coast. He actually drove the Dutch out of Formosa.

The Mings were a Chinese dynasty; the Manchus were aliens. Koxinga failed to restore the Mings.

However, two secret patriotic societies, the Hung Pang and the Tsin Pang, the Red and Green Societies, were organized and for not quite three hundred years, until 1911, these organizations worked underground to restore China to the Chinese.

The Revolution of 1911, which made China a Republic, led by Sun Yat-sen, was the achievement of these secret societies. Many of the principal leaders of the Revolution were members of these secret societies.

Ningpo, a port in Chekiang province, was a center of Tsin Pang activity. Chiang Kai-shek is a Ningpo man, a protege, in his youth, of the Chen family which was active in the Revolution, actually seizing Shanghai for Sun Yat-sen.

It is probable that Chiang in his youth was a member of the Tsin Pang, although I cannot know it for a fact, as these societies remained secret in my days in China, only a few leaders making themselves publicly known. Sun Yat-sen told me stories of the heroism of the secret society members on many occasions and said that without them the 1911 Revolution could not have succeeded.

CHAPTER TWENTY-EIGHT

I TAGGED around after Ellen, carrying a tripod or a bag of flashbulbs. And we did the French market, the old Spanish public buildings. Ellen made dozens of pictures of courtyards and lacy iron filigrees. And when the photography was finished for a while, Ellen and I played tourist in rented carriages. We ate at the celebrated places. In a place called Gaiatores we heard the bull-throated man speaking of Algiers. That's a suburb of New Orleans across the river. There isn't much to it—refineries, docks, warehouses, the industrial complex. But it's the local Gaiatores. There's a three-day delay in New Orleans proper. But a short hop across the river and bang—you're married, Ellen dashed softly when I looked at her while the man was bellowing about Algiers. And she was very quiet as we walked back to the boat.

"Masking Day tomorrow, Carney," she said after we'd covered the dimly lit blocks that led to the Dixie Dandy's berthing space. "I have to get a few pictures. Some in the afternoon and half a dozen or so at night. But that won't take long. Should we be maskers? I've seen funny faces and raucous trumpets and join the mob? Would you like that?"

We climbed the wide staircase, feeling the sharp chilling breeze that swept along the river.

"I can't," I said. "Have to work." Ellen's easy swinging pace broke rhythm slightly, just enough to show her surprise. But she only pressed my hand tightly and let me explain.

"I didn't want to tell you until it was all over," I said stiffly. "I know now you feel about all this. But the job isn't finished yet. We did get Stewart. I told you that. But not the money he stole. We think he planned to meet his girl tomorrow. They arranged a signal with costumes. At least, that's how we figure it. And we think she has the money. Two hundred thousand dollars. We hope we can find her tomorrow."

"Yes, I see," Ellen said softly. She stopped on the Texas deck landing and led me out onto the windy promenade. For a long, silent moment she stared out silently over the water made black by night. Then in a small, choked voice, she said: "Poor Carney. No carnival for Carney."

I got to Grodnik's hotel room shortly after 9 the next morning. I hadn't stayed to have breakfast on the boat. He had just finished shaving.

He said: "What was that fellow you worked over on the boat? Bebe was the wife's name. Bolton?"

"Boltonick." "Feds picked them up at the airport. Holding them on an open charge. Got something against them from Illinois. Federal rap."

"Okay," I said. "Who cares?" We had breakfast, and took a cab to the police station and went to the chief's office. It was 10:15 when we got there.

"Going to be a tough day for my boys, captain," the chief said. "I don't suppose you have a carnival problem in Philadelphia?"

"Well, nothing like what you got," Grodnik said. "We got what we call Mummer's Day. Big parades and so forth, but it comes in January. Too cold for much trouble."

"Well, we got everything organized," the chief said. "Harrigan's out trotting around in that set of kilts and the rest of the boys got him hemmed in. Just a matter of time."

The door swung open and it wasn't a matter of time any more. In the outer office was the slim rookie in Stewart's costume, the topaz brooch sparkling against the brilliant turtleneck on his shoulder. He wore a bonnet with a long cock's feather and dangling from it were bits of obviously false hair. A fake red moustache completed the fraud, perfectly covering the distinctive features of the young cop with the one sort of disguise that would not make Stewart's girl suspicious.

She hadn't been suspicious. She was a slim girl and when she wasn't so frightened, she would be pretty. Now her mouth was constricted with panic, her eyes wide and staring, seeing nothing. A policeman in a clown suit with a big ruff around his neck led her, unprotesting, to a chair and pushed her gently into it.

Her dress was a swooping affair, vaguely Elizabethan in cut, with a long, ungainly stomacher of phony seed pearls and a delicate starched ruffle at the throat. She wore a lot of fake jewels, including a small gilt coronet on her head. She had made no attempt to copy the brocaded fabrics of the Elizabethans. Not she. Not Stewart's Mary. The full, flowing dress was made of the Stuart tartan. A clue for Charles Stewart, so he could join in the hunt, too. Mary and Charles of Stewart. The gilt crown was the final pathetic touch. Mary of Scotland. Mary of Stewart.

The cop in the clown suit came into the chief's office, shutting the door on Stewart's Mary. He dropped a car key on the chief's desk.

"She's staying in a motor court. She bought a car in Georgia. Drove it down. It's parked at the court now. Money's in the trunk, she says."

We went out through the ante-room, past the stuffy erect girl with the frozen eyes. And that was the worst part of all. I was almost running when I got to the door.

When Capt. Grodnik and I were alone, he said: "Meant to tell you that I was in the chief's office last night when he was writing out his story for the newspapers. He makes himself out quite a fellow. But I made sure he had your part right. About the costume and how to work the trap with the camcorder. The story's all set and ready to go out, probably out now. And don't think it won't make a splash back in Philadelphia. Front pages for a couple of days, anyway. You don't have to worry about a thing, boy. You'll be a celebrity."

I bought a paper and read the story. I was in it, just as Grodnik had said. I had what I needed. The chief had probably released the story as soon as he had picked up the money. Stewart's Mary had it almost intact, lacking only about $4,000 of the amount Stewart had stolen.

I thought quickly of Ellen. I hadn't told her Stewart had been killed, only that we had found him. And I didn't want her to read it in the paper. She would know now, but it would be much better if she heard it from me.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

news behind the news

By ED KILMAN

Editor's Note: While Ray Tucker is on vacation there will be guest columns by several prominent newspaper editors. Today's column is by Ed Kilman, editor of the Houston Post, Houston, Tex.

Texas' recent Democratic runoff primary, in which Allen Shivers became the first governor of that state to crack the two-term tradition, decided more than the election of a governor. It was a smashing repulse of a terrific mass attempt of "loyalist" liberals and labor unions to knock Shivers off his perch as a rising leader of Southern conservatives, and to snatch control of the state party from the conservatives for 1956.

Shivers' resounding victory (Democratic nomination means election in Texas) strengthened his influence for conservatism, either within the party or for Eisenhower if he runs again in the next presidential race. It was a blow to the national party's liberal bellwethers, who watched the contest closely and put in a few licks against the Texas governor.

At the 1952 Democratic National Convention, Shivers had starred in the coup of Southern conservatives which prevented the Moody-Humphrey-Roosevelt-Williams leftist group from clapping an iron-clad loyalty oath upon the Dixie Ike-loyalty delegations. On top of that, Shivers spearheaded the Democrats-for-Eisenhower drive that put Texas in the GOP column by a whopping margin for the second time since Reconstruction.

FIGHTERS—For this defection and his soaring conservative potency, the "loyalists" sought to clip his political wings at the shoulders. They thought his party truancy and his running for an unprecedented third term made him doubly vulnerable—as to a considerable degree they did. So they mobilized for the most savage assault that has been made on a candidate in Texas in decades.

Throughout the campaign, Shivers cried out that the fight against him was masterminded, powered and largely financed by outside CIO leadership and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. He charged that all radical hues from pale pink to deep red were aligned against him (Last spring he sponsored the most drastic anti-Communist state law now in effect.)

This summer's primary results

indicated that something unusual had happened to give the "loyalists" new driving force since 1952, when Shivers rolled up a majority of nearly half a million votes over Ralph Yarborough, an Austin lawyer, after a phlegmatic campaign. Two years later, the same Yarborough loosed an atomic attack, and in the July primary he cut that vast majority down to a mere 23,750-vote plurality and forced the governor into a runoff. (Two minor candidates prevented a majority.) Yarborough scored overwhelmingly in industrial areas with a large union vote, and the heavy Negro vote went almost solidly for him.

FRESH FURY—Seeing in Shivers' close squeak an excellent chance of defeating him, Yarborough returned to the fray in the runoff with redoubled fury. Some American political oracles, viewing the Texas primary results from afar, interpreted them as evidence that the Lone Star State was caught up in a Southern liberal current—a "re-treat" from the GOP flood tide of 1952 as exemplified by the primary victories of Kefauver in Tennessee, Scott in North Carolina and Sparkman in Alabama. But it wasn't that, Texas did not go Republican two years ago; she went for Eisenhower, and probably will go again.

What happened was this: The conservatives, remembering Shivers' landslide victory over Yarborough in 1952, and unaware or heedless of the supercharged Yarborough offensive this year, simply were caught napping in overconfidence. They made virtually no campaign and neglected to vote by the hundreds of thousands.

JOLTED—The July primary returns jolted them awake. They got busy, and the results showed up in the runoff. Although second primary balloting usually is light, this one topped the July total by 200,000 votes and gave Shivers a 92,000 majority. This is a fairly good batting average in Texas. But for the third-term handicap, Shivers' 1952 defection, Yarborough's hurricane of personal attacks on him, and other state and local issues, his majority might well have been as great as that of two years ago.

Now Yarborough, after two defeats for governor and one for attorney general, is a dead duck politically, as Shivers would have been had he lost. But Shivers' light is shining more brightly than ever, and his voice will carry renewed prestige in Southern conservative councils in 1956.

Growth Through Useful Work

CHRISTIANS SHOULD LABOR "HEARTILY, AS UNTO THE LORD."

Scripture—Colossians 3:23-24; 1 Thessalonians 4:10b-11;
1 Thessalonians 5:6-13.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

IN HIS epistle to the church at Colosse, Paul writes about human relationships—the duty of wives, husbands, parents, children, servants. Then he turns to the duty of every individual to work well and heartily.

Never was there a more timely lesson for our times. As hours of work have been shortened due to mechanical helps, people generally seem to let down in their work, whatever it may be.

We hear on all sides of sloppy, slipshod workmanship. Workmen and women are well paid, but often they tend to be careless and lackadaisical, intent only on getting through the day with the least effort.

Of course this is not always the case. There are many conscientious workers who give their employers a full day's work for their wages, and perform their tasks well, but we hear many complaints to the contrary.

Paul was an educated man, but he worked with his hands at tent-making, which was his trade. We can be sure his work was well done.

Even if one is laboring at an ungenial task, there will be a certain joy and satisfaction in doing a good job. Discussing this very thing with a young woman more and more; And that ye study to be quiet, and to do your own business, and to work with your hands, as we commanded you."

"Study to be quiet." How much our world needs to follow Paul's advice there. We rush about, we do our work hurriedly, often spoiling it by trying to do it speedily.

"Be still, and know that I am God," said the prophet. We need to repeat that often. To be quiet and strive to be at peace; to turn a serene face to our associates and to do our work in an unhurried, but thorough manner.

We could do much to help others if we strove for this attitude, and we surely would please God and be more Christian like.

Children usually have to be admonished to do their home work, or to do their home work, but even a child feels more satisfied and happy if he does his work without being prodded.

Paul, in his second epistle to the Thessalonians, speaks of disorderly conduct. He had received a mixed report from the church in that city. The converts were being persecuted, but brotherly love was increasing under it. There were, however, reports of disorderly conduct in some, and Paul was concerned about that. He writes:

MEMORY VERSE

"Whatsoever ye do, do it heartily, as to the Lord, and not unto men."—Colossians 3:23.

recently we both agreed that when we accomplished something worth while we experienced a warm glow of satisfaction.

"And whatsoever ye do, do it heartily, as to the Lord, and not unto men," Paul writes, and adds, "Knowing that of the Lord ye shall receive the reward of the inheritance; for ye serve the Lord Christ."

A great deal is said in the Bible about work. Jesus spoke of His work and the work of the Father. It is mentioned in different books of the Old Testament. "God finished His work," after the creation.

Work gives balance to life. The person who never works may drift into dissolute habits to fill out hours of boredom. Work, even hard work, has its compensations if done heartily, as to the Lord.

Most of our lesson is taken from Thessalonians. Thessalonica was the most populous city in all Macedonia, and it was at the height of its prosperity at the beginning of the Christian Era. It had a number of Jewish citizens and they had a synagogue.

Paul writes in his first epistle to the church there: "We beseech you, brethren, that ye increase

"Now we command you, brethren, in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that ye withdraw yourselves from every brother that walketh disorderly, and not after the tradition which he received of us."

"For yourselves know how ye ought to follow us; for we behaved not ourselves disorderly among you; neither did we eat any man's bread for nought; but wrought with labor and travail night and day, that we might not be chargeable to any of you."

"Not because we have no power, but to make ourselves an example (example) unto you to follow us. For even when we were with you, this we commanded you, that if any would not work, neither should he eat."

As for the disorderly and "busybodies," he says, "Now them that are such we command and exhort by our Lord Jesus Christ, that with quietness they work, and eat their own bread. But ye brethren, be not weary in well doing."

All of us know that when we work day after day, we grow weary, but let us remember Paul's admonition, and try to think of Jesus and His work, and "Be not weary in well doing." We shall gain our reward

Bible Words To Live By

PSALMS 102 (103):8—"Merciful and gracious is the Lord, slow to anger and abounding in kindness." (Confraternity Version)

The theme of this beautiful Psalm is God's readiness to pardon the repentant sinner. One reason for God's mercy toward us is that, as our Creator, He is mindful of our weakness. "For He knows how we are formed; He remembers that we are dust" (V14). But more than that; He is a personal Creator, and therefore our Father. "As a father has compassion on his children so the Lord has compassion on those who fear Him" (V13).

Our Savior, the eternal Son of God, gave a new and deeper meaning to this concept of the mercy of "Our Father in heaven" who is ever ready to "forgive us our debts." His parable of the prodigal son is the best commentary on this Psalm. As long as we return in repentance to our Father, firmly resolved not to offend Him again by sin, He welcomes us with open arms. The only unforgivable sin is despair of God's forgiveness.

Teen-Age Gangs Getting So Bad Even Adults Are Afraid Of Them

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Teen-agers in every generation have annoyed, or amused their elders, and generally been written off as pretty worthless unless there happened to be a war on, and they were needed to carry guns.

Of course, this never was really true and few really believed it. If every crop of teen-agers was worse than the one before, the human race would have lost out long ago.

But it does seem some strange kind of mental bug is infecting our young. Parental authority is crumbling. Juvenile delinquency is growing. The kid gangs of yore used to think they were pretty daring when they joined in mass fist fights or made a midnight raid on a watermelon patch; the kid gangs today have gone a long step farther. They want to rob a grocery store, steal a car, carry a shiv, ambush a grownup and kick him into a pulp.

The other night I was walking with my wife on a Manhattan street. A group of teen-age boys approached in full uniform: T-shirts and blue jeans. They were laughing, mauling each other and shouting oisterously, as cubs have done since time began.

"Don't say anything to them," said Frances, clutching my arm nervously.

"Say anything to them I don't even know those kids."

"Well, don't say anything anyway," she said. "It might start trouble."

The kids passed by without even noticing us. They kept right on mauling each other and making those boisterous teen-age sounds that put the nerves of some forgetful adults on edge. But I remember being that age very well myself—the wilderness when you are half-boy, half-man, and feeling pretty much at sea inside. And so I knew why they were so noisy.

In their hearts they felt insecure, just as a child whistles passing a lonely graveyard in the dark.

But I also knew what my wife was thinking. She was thinking of the rash of headlines about teen-age gangs beating up and killing casual passersby, or muscling down a woman for the change in her purse.

Since then I have heard several women say they were afraid to go out unescorted in the evening, and men complain "nobody's really safe on the street at night anymore because of those crazy kids."

If that is the situation here, then the same feeling must exist in dozens of other cities across the United States. For New York has no monopoly on kid gangs or juvenile delinquency.

How many adult Americans right now are actually physically afraid of teen-agers? Undoubtedly

Another Rockfall At Niagara Hinted

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP)—The danger of new rockfalls on the American side of Niagara Falls—possibly over the Labor Day Weekend—has led to the closing of Luna Island and part of Goat Island.

The sightseeing points were ordered barred to the public yesterday after geologists reported seven big cracks in the area and called the situation "very dangerous."

Conditions were described as similar to those of July 28, when 185,000 tons of rock tumbled into the 10-foot gorge, carrying away a slice of the American falls and part of Prospect Point.

Rubirosa Banned From Gabor Film

LOS ANGELES (AP)—International playboy Porfirio Rubirosa can't play in a film with his current heartthrob Zsa Zsa Gabor.

Herman R. Landon, district director of the U. S. Immigration and Nationalization Service, said yesterday that denial of a work permit to the Dominican has been upheld by officials in Washington.

Landon originally denied the work permit application on July 24, because, he said, the part was "to play a bartender in a Western movie," and "there are hundreds of well qualified actors here who could fill the part."

Sokolsky's These Days

I am convinced from what I observe happening in China today that the islands off the coast of Chekiang, held by Chiang Kai-shek, are again being used as bases for patriotic secret society activity. There are families on some of those islands, particularly those close to Ningpo, that have a tradition of patriotism that never could be watered down by Marxian dialectics. There are families who number many ancestors who died in the nearly three-century battle to save China from alien rule.

A very large part of the population of Shanghai consists of Ningpo families and their ties would still be strong to the concept that no foreign conqueror may be tolerated on China's soil.

The new American policy seems to be developing in the direction of using our fleet to defend these islands as well as Formosa. From these islands such ports as Shanghai, Ningpo, Amoy, Swatow and Foochow can easily be blockaded. If air bases exist on them, as they undoubtedly do, the mainland can be bombed from close range.

Admiral Felix B. Stump has given to the Red Chinese every indication that seizure of any of these islands will be resisted. If this policy is carried out, it will be a definite diplomatic defeat for Chou En-lai, and from the standpoint of practicality, vitiates his success in Indo-China.

Many modern highways follow old buffalo trails. Before the 19th century, American bison ranged as far east as the Carolinas. In their migration westward, they pounded out trails followed by the Indians and by later settlers.

There Is No State Boundary Between California and Arizona

According to maps, the Colorado river separates California and Arizona, but through the years its course has changed.

By WELDON D. WOODSON
Central Press Correspondent
ALHAMBRA, Calif. — Recently, the California State Division of Beaches and Parks and the State Fish and Game commission decided to establish four areas along the Colorado river as retreats for fishing, boating and recreation. Of course, these parks must be in California and not on the other side of the Colorado river in Arizona.

Before the officials had a chance to put up park signs, however, the State Lands commission had its say. It pointed out it never has been ascertained exactly what constitutes the boundary between California and Arizona. If the park planners were not careful, they might intrude on Arizona property.

As everybody knows, the maps show the Colorado river separates the two states. But since California was created as a state in 1850 and Arizona in 1912, the meandering river with its periodic floods has changed its course many times. Would the Colorado river as it was in 1912, or now, be considered for boundary purposes? The just-formed California-Arizona Boundary commission will determine this.

It will designate the boundary line in terms of latitude and longitude. In the years to come should the Colorado river take a notion to forge its way more into Arizona or California, it will have no bearing on the division mark between the neighbor states.

The four parks as originally conceived would take up about 33 miles of the 70 miles of river front between Parker dam and the Mexican border. One would extend 10 miles along the river and cover 4,897 acres; the second, 13.75 miles and 8,752 acres; third, only one mile and 400 acres, and the fourth, the largest, 8 miles and 19,500 acres.

With the boundary question having been raised, however, the figures in terms of acres and river-front miles are open to change. There is a possibility that some of the river's fishing spots which sportsmen always have thought of as in California may be transferred to Arizona, or what now is considered Arizona water, deeded to California. With the problems of game and fish laws and property rights involved, it is a situation that leaves the officials of the two states scratching their heads.

GOP Expects Tough Battle In Eastern U. S. Elections

CINCINNATI (P) — Republicans apparently will find themselves fighting primarily a defensive battle in the eastern half of the country in their November election contests with the Democrats for control of Congress.

Although they maintained the same outward confidence displayed by their GOP colleagues in 14 Midwestern, Rocky Mountain and Pacific Coast areas, Republicans from 12 key states in the eastern half made far more modest claims in an Associated Press survey.

Interviewed at the Republican conference here this week, national committee members and state chairmen claimed a net gain of 14 House and one Senate seat in the eastern half. Their western colleagues had claimed gains of 17 House and five Senate seats in 14 states.

This total shift of 31 House and six Senate seats seemed to represent peak Republican claims and was open to hot dispute from the Democrats. The present House lineup includes 218 Republicans, 213 Democrats, one Independent and three vacancies. In the Senate there are 48 Republicans, 4 Democrats, one Independent and one vacancy.

One of the chief GOP trouble spots in the East apparently lies in New Jersey, where criticism of Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) by former Rep. Clifford Case, the Republican senatorial nominee, has helped stir up a revolt among pro-McCarthy members of the party.

Democrats expect their nominee, Rep. Charles Howell, to benefit by this but GOP State Chairman Samuel L. Bodine said he remains confident Case will make the political grade.

Republicans also may be in trouble in the Ohio race for the Senate seat formerly held by the late

4 Persons Die In Truck-Train Collision

WILMINGTON (P) — Two Ohio sisters and two Richmond, Ky., men lost their lives yesterday when a tractor-trailer slammed into a passenger train in the heart of the village of Reesville.

All were jammed in the driver's seat of the truck.

Dead were Katherine Myers, 19, of Rt. 3, Peebles, Adams County, Ohio; her 6-year-old sister, Verda Ethel; Tony B. Cox, 38, of Richmond, Ky., driver of the truck, and Clinton Simpson, 19, also of Richmond.

State police said Cox apparently did not see the Baltimore, Ohio train. The engine already was about 200 feet past the crossing when the truck hit a car.

Reesville, a Clinton County village of 250 persons, is seven miles east of Wilmington.

The impact of the crash threw Cox and Katherine Myers from the truck.

Two train cars were damaged considerably, the state highway patrol said, but the train was not derailed.

Three train passengers received minor injuries from the jolt.

ing at least four congressional seats in Pennsylvania and holding the governorship by a comfortable margin. He thought Republicans might make substantial House gains in Philadelphia.

Some other Republicans said, however, their party's chances may not be too good unless there is an improvement in employment in the soft and hard coal regions, in railroads and steel. Given no such improvement, they thought it possible they could lose three of the 19 congressional seats they now hold against the Democrats' 11.

West Virginia's national committeeman, Walter S. Hallanan, was making no public claims in a state National Committeeman Ralph F. Gates thought Indiana Republicans would hold their own in contests for House seats but some other campaign strategists said privately they fear two GOP congressmen might be upset if economic conditions in the districts don't improve.

In Kentucky, Mrs. Stanley D. Pace, national committeewoman, gave Republican Sen. John Sherman Cooper a "good chance" to thwart the efforts of Democratic former Vice President Alben Barkley to return to the Senate.

Politicians generally regard Cooper's chances as among the least favorable of the Republican senators running for re-election this year.

National Committeeman G. Mason Owlett was optimistic about the Republicans' chances of gainwhere Democratic Sen. Matthew M. Neely has demonstrated his ability in the past to run away from the opposition.

Mrs. Charles W. Weis Jr., national committeewoman, said the GOP should keep its 27 congressional posts and win at least one from the Democrats in the November election in New York.

Republican Gov. Thomas E. Dewey has yet to say whether he will seek re-election in advance of the state nominating convention Sept. 21-22.

National Air Show To Open On Saturday

DAYTON (P) — People who like their heroes to travel faster than sound will gather in nearby Vandalia tomorrow, Sunday and Monday for the National Aircraft Show.

On display will be jets, missiles and other aircraft. The skies will buzz with attempts to break last year's speed records, some as high as 707 mph.

While the Air Force displays its improved might, other AF officials are at work to push American air power even further.

J. Roger Lewis, assistant secretary of the Air Force for material, told show officials here it is "remarkable the great lead" the United States has in air power.

He indicated the country must push its lead "further and harder" if we are to stay ahead of the Russians.

Lewis warned, "There is no second best in this game."

Cost of the three-day event was estimated at $350,000 by Benjamin T. Franklin, general manager for the show.

He said the show has been underwritten by the Dayton Chamber of Commerce and the National Air Foundation.

One Air Force official said the show will cause taxpayers no extra

Double Loss To Yanks Fails To Dampen High Spirits In Cleveland

NEW YORK (AP) — Manager Al Lopez and his band of league-leading Indians left for Chicago today still confident of winning the American League pennant and itching to "get even" with the New York Yankees in Cleveland.

The two successive littings by the Yankees sliced their once 5½-game margin to 3½ after they captured the first of the three-game series. But this did not seem to disturb Lopez too much. At least, not outwardly.

"I still feel we can hold the lead," he said after yesterday's 3-2 defeat. "I said after our Tuesday night's victory, they can hurt us now but they can't kill us."

Reminded that the tough White Sox will furnish the opposition in six of Cleveland's remaining 21 games, Lopez said grimly:

"What's the difference whom we play at this stage of the race they're all tough. We've just got to keep on winning, that's all."

"And about the Yankees," he asked. "They've got to win more games than we do. And don't forget this either. They've still got two against us."

"That's right," chimed in Bobby Avila, the team's fine second baseman and leading hitter. "Wait until we get them in Cleveland next time. It will be different there. We'll get even with them over there."

Casey Stengel, Yankee manager, had little to say about the pennant race.

"We're back in business, we're back in business," he told interviewers. "But we got to keep winning to stay in business."

Asked to explain his reason for yanking starter Whitey Ford with nobody on base, one out in the ninth and the Yankees ahead 3-2, the cagey skipper said:

"Ford was tiring. I could see it in the eighth inning when he walked his first pinch hitter (Rudy Regalado) on four pitches and their next pinch hitter (Hank Majeski) put one in the seats only to have my guy (Irv Noren) pluck it out."

"Besides, I had Allie Reynolds warming up in the bullpen for two days. Allie was ready. He's my meal ticket. When their No. 1 big guy (Larry Doby) homered in the ninth, I knew I had gone far enough with Ford. Especially with their No. 2 big guy (Al Rosen) up there."

Reynolds walked Rosen on four pitches but preserved Ford's 16th victory by disposing of Vic Wertz on a popout and getting Dave Philley to hit into a game-ending force play.

In beating the Indians, the Yankees packed all of their scoring into the sixth inning. Mickey Mantle slammed the first pitch into the seats for one run. A second scored on Andy Carey's sharp single after a two-base error by Vic Wertz and an intentional walk to Irv Noren. The third run came home on another error by Wertz, who knocked down Eddie Robinson's grounder but couldn't find the ball in time to make a play.

The Indians collected only three hits off Ford—homers by Sam Dente and Doby and a single by Avila. The loss broke an 11-game winning streak for 20-game winner Bob Lemon.

Dodger-Giant Series Said 'It'

NEW YORK (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers open a three-game series against the first-place New York Giants at the Polo Grounds tonight and the word around town is that this is "it"—the team that sweeps this wins the flag.

Although the Giants lead by only three games, they can't lose first place in this series. A Brooklyn sweep would leave the Dodgers two percentage points behind.

But the experts point out that the Giants don't seem to have much bounce to the ounce left after a grueling season. They've slipped back three times since zooming into the lead.

3 New Areas Opened To Ohio Hunters

COLUMBUS (AP) — Three new areas will be opened to hunters in Ohio this fall, the state wildlife division announced. At the same time, the division said, expanded sections of two established hunting areas will be made available.

The new areas:

A 380-acre former wildlife refuge in Wyandot County one mile south of Carey on Ohio 699 to be opened Oct. 1.

A 1,000-acre area in Jackson County off U. S. 35.

A 468-acre area near Fayetteville in Brown County.

The additions to established areas are:

More than 2,400 acres to the 1,600 acres of Kildeer Plains two miles southwest of Harpster in Wyandot County.

Some 530 acres to the 505 acres of the Wold Creek public hunting area eight miles southwest of McConnelville in Morgan County.

Two Ohio lakes have been stocked and are ready for fishing, the division announced.

The lakes—Veto, in Washington County, and Knox, in Knox County—will have parking facilities, toilets, drinking wells and boat launching ramps.

Stock Car Parade Postponed A Week Til Next Thursday

The gala stock car parade which was supposed to have been staged Thursday evening has been postponed until next Thursday.

All the arrangements concerning time and place will remain the same. The parade will start at 5:30 p. m. from the Fairgrounds and head into the downtown area.

Thursday night's races were attended by the second largest crowd of the season, according to the management. Rain halted the activities at the 13th lap of the feature race.

Charles Fox won the Jake Hines Trophy in the first feature race. Following Fox to finish line were Denver Nutt, Ed Halley, Walter Gray and Thurm Wheeler.

OSIE OSBORN won the Bernie Lang Trophy in the race halted by the rains. Gene Thimmes was second, Halley third, Don McFarland fourth and Tom Webb fifth.

McFarland won the first elimination and Webb took the second. Osborn won the third elimination.

The winners' handicap was taken by Bill Maloy. Bill Pedigo was the consolation race winner.

National new-car registration figures* for the first six months of 1954 prove that Ford leads the industry in sales! In fact, ever since car production has been free of restrictions, more and more new-car buyers have been swinging over to Ford. That's because Ford offers more things for more people than any other car. In today's Ford, for example, you get the matchless benefits of owning the only car in the low-price field with a V-8 engine (the new Ford Y-block V-8) ... the only car in Ford's field with the smooth ride of Ball-Joint Front Suspension ... the only car in Ford's field with truly modern styling ... the only car in Ford's field with such high resale value.

Brooklyn Finds Last April's Losses Really Hurting Now

By The Associated Press

The Brooklyn Dodgers are learning the hard way that a game won in April counts just as much toward the pennant as one in the September stretch drive.

The Dodgers open a three-game set with the first-place New York Giants at the Polo Grounds, but even if they win these three they'll still be two percentage points short of the lead.

Things would be considerably different if the Dodgers could reach back into the past and reverse the results of two games played in mid-April. Brooklyn and New York were scheduled for four games against each other in the first six days of the season. Rain washed out one and the Giants took two of the other three.

By the margin of those two games the Giants lead the Dodgers 9-7 in the season's series with six to play. The last three come in the final week at Brooklyn.

Only four games were played in the majors yesterday but two of them figured prominently in the flag chases. The New York Yankees edged the Cleveland Indians 3-2, cutting a full game off the Indians' margin. Brooklyn trounced the Chicago Cubs 10-2, moving within three games of the idle Giants.

The Philadelphia Phillies shaded St. Louis 5-4 and Washington swamped Detroit 16-6.

In beating the Indians for the second time in three days, the Yankees packed all their scoring into the sixth inning. Mickey Mantle slammed the first pitch into the seats for one run. A second scored on Andy Carey's sharp single after a two-base error by Vic Wertz and an intentional walk to Irv Noren. And the third run came home on another error by Wertz, who knocked down Eddie Robinson's hot grounder but couldn't find the ball in time to make a play.

The Indians collected only three hits off Whitey Ford — homers by Sam Dente and Larry Doby and a single by Bobby Avila. The loss broke an 11-game winning streak for 20-game winner Bob Lemon.

Seven runs in the fourth inning helped Brooklyn end Chicago's seven-game winning streak. During the flurry Gil Hodges hit his 36th homer, with one aboard, Russ Meyer was the winner.

In Washington, Mickey Vernon added three hits to his previous lifetime total of 1,999 and became the third active player to pass 2,000. The others are Stan Musial and Enos Slaughter. Included in the hits was his 19th homer. Roy Sievers broke the club's all-time home run record with his 23rd. He drove in seven runs in the slugfest.

Robin Roberts won his 19th game for the Phils as Harvey Haddix failed for the seventh time since July 30 to win his 16th. Stan Lopata's three-run homer helped Haddix to an early shower.

Braves Booked For Redleg Series

CINCINNATI (AP) — The fourth-place Cincinnati Reds tonight face the third-place Milwaukee Braves in the last Crosley Field night game but even a sweep of their four-game series could not close the gap between the two squads.

The Reds, a second division ball team the last nine years, are 11 1/2 games behind the Braves. Four straight victories would narrow the margin to 7 1/2 games with only 18 contests to go.

Milwaukee has lost four of seven Crosley Field contests this season and has the same record at its home field.

Bolt Fires Barn

COLUMBUS (AP) — Lightning last night set fire to a barn and former riding stable in the Columbus area. Two horses and a 3-week-old calf died. Damage to the barn was estimated at $15,000.

Chisox Chieftain Sold On Richards

CHICAGO (AP) — Vice President Chuck Comiskey professes not to be worried that his Chicago White Sox may have difficulty retaining Paul Richards as manager.

Comiskey said he probably will talk contract with Richards today when the Sox return home to open a three-game series with the American League-leading Cleveland Indians, but he added:

"I don't think there is any question about where Paul will be next year. It'll be with the White Sox."

There has been talk that Richards is entertaining a tempting offer to become general manager of the Baltimore Orioles and that he will demand both a raise and a three-year contract to stay with the Sox.

No One Knows Just How Bad Things Can Get

Sad TV Experience Told With Humility; But All Ends Well

BY A. VIEWER

Now, I am a peaceful fella by nature. But television is making a wreck out of me.

Since I got my new set, there have been an awful lot of changes. The fights are one example.

After watching all the boxing matches, I felt it was only fair to the sponsor to try his brew. After all, he was spending all that money to bring the fights into my living room.

Well, every few rounds, the announcer would pop in with a commercial. And I would respond with a couple of healthy swigs.

IT WAS NOT too bad with those quick knockouts. But with that 15-round title match, I tied one on so bad I had a hangover for three days.

Then there are those news programs sponsored by cigarette people. Again I felt obliged to try their product. You see, I never smoked before this.

Well, the news men would get so excited and the world situation got so bad that I nearly smoked myself to death. The doctor is still trying to clear the smoke out of my lungs although I have not had a puff in weeks.

Even my wife became affected. Remember those Army-McCarthy hearings a while back? Well, my wife used to keep the house just as neat as a pin. But once it started she quit doing housework altogether to watch the hearings.

We never even talked to each other for weeks at a time. It got so that when we would talk it would be in code; something like this:

"I CHANNLED 6 but the horizontal kept jumping." To which I might mumble, "You did not fine tune the antenna. It takes a different position from Channel 4."

Then there are those late, late, late movies. I used to get to bed at a decent hour. But now it is usually past 1 a. m. before I hit the sack. And I get up at 5:30 a. m.

And while I watch these movies I like to nibble on a snack. Well, I have now gained some 35 pounds since we got the set a short while ago. I cannot sleep because I ate so much before going to bed that I have night mares.

Everything was going along in this way until a disaster hit us. The TV set went on the blink!

We tried everything. I had to borrow money on my insurance to pay for all the repair men. But no one could fix it.

WE WERE frantic! As a matter of fact, it got so bad we almost got a divorce.

You see, we got so used to watching television that we forgot how to entertain ourselves. The first night we tried playing cards. But we had forgotten the rules.

We quickly ran out of conversation. All we could do was look at the empty screen. We got on each other's nerves.

But wait! All did not end un-happily. We are right back in the groove again. And everything is peaceful once more in our little household.

We mortgaged all our furniture and bought two television sets. And we also have a complete set of replacement parts and tools.

Bring on the brew! I am happy again.

Bandit Arrested Within 2 Hours

YOUNGSTOWN (AP)—Police made an arrest within two hours yesterday and said an unemployed steelworker admitted he robbed the nearby Hubbard branch of Youngstown's Dollar Savings Loan Co.

Police Chief Thomas Maley of Hubbard quoted 58-year-old Oscar Evankovich of Maury as admitting the holdup. Patrolmen said they found $790 at the man's home.

Tracing down an automobile license number taken at the time of the robbery, police and FBI agents easily found the man.

will pass 100 million by 1955.

In its current issue, the magazine says the figure is based on the present annual growth rate of three per cent.

Church membership of all denominations last year, it said, totaled nearly 95 million, a 2½ million gain over 1952.

Ohio Firm Given Federal Rebate

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—President Eisenhower has signed into law a bill directing payment of $75,000 to a Portsmouth, Ohio, firm which says it was forced out of business by Army Engineer operations.

The money will go to the Portsmouth Sand Gravel Co., which claimed its harbor, at the confluence of the Scioto and Ohio Rivers, was spoiled by work on a Portsmouth flood control project.

Engineers in 1940 excavated a new channel from above the harbor to a point about one mile upstream, diverting the Scioto.

Another Man Named In Slaying

LOGAN (AP)—Arthur Sisco, 22, of Lancaster, has been charged as an accomplice of Robert Downs, also 22, in the May 22 murder of David B. Canfield, 71, Perry Twp. farmer.

Prosecutor Fred A. Murray said

'Ohio River Day' Is Proclaimed

COLUMBUS (AP)—Gov. Frank J. Lausche has proclaimed Oct. 18 as Ohio River Day.

The proclamation urged Ohioans to support the "meritorious projects authorized by Congress of the United States which will conserve and improve our God-given water resources in the interest not only of our state but of the nation."

Sisco consistently denies any part in the killing. He is charged with first-degree murder.

Downs has pleaded guilty on preliminary examination in a justice of the peace court and awaits grand jury action. Downs said robbery was the motive and the loot was only 30 cents. Sheriff A. J. Waldron said Downs implicated Sisco.
